APAY Global Citizenship Institute 2014

Global Citizenship Education aims to empower youths to lead their actions. The need has been felt now to involve our youths acquire the knowledge and understanding for Social Justice and Equity, Diversity, Globalization, Sustainable Development, develop the skills for critical thinking, ability to argue effectively, challenge injustices and inequalities and develop values and attitudes to grow the sense of identity and self-esteem, empathy, commitment for social justice and equity, value and respect for diversity, concern for the environment and commitment to sustainable development.

APAY have been involved since then to empower youths so that they can become Global Citizens in order to be able to lead their own action. As part of the continuing efforts of the APAY in this field, the Global Citizenship Institute was held from May 29 to 13 June 2014 at India Social Institute in Bangalore, India. Eight young staff and volunteers from Bangladesh, Korea, Mongolia, Vietnam, Sri Lanka and India participated at this intensive Global Citizenship Education Training. Through this training the participants gained the knowledge and understanding about the social injustices and the issues of surrounding Asia and understood about today's globalized world and how we are interconnected with each other.

During the first three days, the participants were introduced to Global Citizenship and the theological perspective of Global Citizenship. Fr. Joseph Lobo and Dr David Selvaraj facilitated. The sessions helped them realize what it is meant by saying "Global Citizenship" and as well as how it related to each individual as a global citizens. Global duties and rights relating to global concerns are Justice, Peace and Ecology. Global Citizenship is not about the market but participation, shoulder global responsibilities. People live in this world not as individuals but as a community. The concerns of this group sooner or later will become the concerns of other groups. So we should care for people's problems.

Theological session were rendered for the understanding of Christian Mission; theology is the study of God & understanding of God. God loved the world, so we also shall love and respect the world. Given common example of realities of human being lives in this world as one union, one community and value of each individual who are equal to each other. Borders should be seen as a way to using culture from culture, religion from religion or race and help realize the differences. Asian people have an instinct of colonial mind set, therefore, it needs to raise the sense of leadership. People needs to follow no selfishness, no dictation, open mind and always willingness to listen to learn and change it necessary.

The process of transformation of people should open minded, think new ways to practice, people need to think critically and come out of comfort zone, these were discussed with explanations. Asian countries have common characteristics, colonial rule, tendency to adopt western model in education, poverty alleviation, political process, etc.. These highly influence our communities. Today the world has become global village. Our own communities have changed positively as well as negatively. For example in India the reality is that today the world wealthy people living in this country as well as most poor communities live here. All development efforts are based on profit making. They don't care about local communities. Young people should think these issues and plan responses. The session was conducted by Max Ediger.

After the class room sessions, the participants were divided in three groups and sent to different field exposures. The participants visited villagers, schools, street children, met young people for two days and they became a part of the lives of the people. They came back and shared their experiences.

Alternative response session conducted by Fr.Stephen. He brings the participant to think something especial to do their own society. YMCA is best place for community development. Youth are the tools bring response own place. All the participants make own action plan which they intend to implement upon return to their respective YMCAs.

The training concluded with high expectations that the participants shall hold follow up programs in their own YMCAs after this training. We thank the Indian Social Institute, Bangalore and the National Council of YMCAs of India for their relentless support, which made this GCI a grand success.

The Global Citizenship Institute is an initiative of the APAY, launched with a view to impart the knowledge and ingrain the sense of Global Citizenship amongst our youth. The youths of the YMCAs today shall be the future leaders of the YMCA. The understanding of Global Citizenship shall help them to be sensitive towards the issues we are facing globally today and to be aware of needs of our communities and eventually lead to local action programs based on Global Citizenship, which will pave the way towards our YMCA mission of having a society based on justpeace and sustainable development.

The Global Citizenship Institute is a two week long intensive course, where the participants are initially imparted the basics of Global Citizenship, then they are sent for community emersion, where they gain emphatic understanding of the realities of the community. They experience the pangs of poverty and the result of deprivation. Upon returning to the class room, their dwell upon analyzing the root causes of the issues and also examine the alternative responses which could reverse the demerits of the globalization. The participants do also have the opportunity to examine similar situation in their own locality, from where they come from.

Competent resource persons help them to understand the root causes and show them the possible ways of alternative responses. The participants of the GCI draw up their action plan which they will implement upon their return to their home countries.

The Global Citizenship Institute was a great success this year, held in Bangalore, India from 29th May to 13th June. It could carry out all the elements of the curriculum in an orderly manner and have succeeded to bring about positive changes in the mindset of the participants. This shall inspire them to be sensitive towards the issues they face in their own communities. The community immersion was for three days where the participants had the opportunity to reside in the slums, understand the lives of the people there and had been able to build up good rapport with their host families. This was an incredible experience for the participants especially who came from the developed countries. They also realized the love and care of these downtrodden people, who are the most neglected in the society. Surely, this had grown a sense of responsibility for the participants to take practical initiatives for the people of the lesser God, to bring positive changes in their lives.

We are quite optimistic that the GCI has encouraged our participants to be more involved in the community with the sense of Global Citizenship and work towards betterment of the society. Our heartfelt gratitude to the Indian Social Institute, Bangalore, and the National Council of YMCAs of India for their unconditional support in rendering this program. We wish to continue this program for the following years.

Disaster Risk Reduction Management Training

In 2012 and 2013, the Asia and Pacific Alliance of YMCAs conducted a series of disaster Preparedness and Management workshops in Yangon, Myanmar and Kallar, Sri Lanka. Participated in by YMCAs from disaster prone countries, the workshops were intended to help develop their capacities in responding to emergencies, better understand the International Humanitarian Standards and learn how to avail support by completing the Emergency Appeal Templates. This time, this national initiative of the YMCA of the Philippines was on preparedness to reduce the risk of disasters involving the local YMCAs and increasing the youths' participation. It was aimed at building capacities and competencies of local YMCAs in managing emergency response and reducing the risk of disasters in their own local context. In addition, it also aimed at forming a National Disaster Risk Reduction Committee to coordinate and manage local Disaster Management activities of the YMCA.

Held on May 27-30, 2014 at Carlos Hometel, Rawis, Legazpi City, this workshop was participated in by 25 local representatives from nine (9) local YMCAs including the National General Secretary, eight (8) local General Secretaries, senior staffs and Board members of the local YMCAs.

After the theoretical discussion on related topics as Introduction to Disaster Risk Reduction and Climate Change, Participatory Capacity Vulnerability Assessment Tools, WAY International Coordination Protocol and Emergency Appeal, Sharing of Experiences and Lessons Learned, a simulation activity on Evacuation and Contingency Planning was organized. Participants were divided into four (4) groups which were then trained through actual evacuation and organizing exercises and by living in tents as temporary shelter and cooking their food from relief rations. This was a good learning experience as gathered from feedbacks and observations by both adult and young leaders. This was followed by a briefing on and actual Water Survival Exercises. A National YMCA Disaster Risk Reduction Committee Framework was organized and later presented and approved in principle by the National Board during its meeting on May 31.

This initiative was organized and co-hosted by the YMCA of Albay and the YMCA of the Philippines with support from Y Care International and Asia and Pacific Alliance of YMCAs. The latter two international organizations were represented during the workshop.

APAY concern for Climate Change

During the Consultation Meeting of APAY Global Alternative Tourism Network held in September 2013 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, the need was felt to form a Resource Group on Climate Change in APAY. The main objective of this group will be to provide information and support for the advocacy and lobby work of the YMCAs and APAY in combating climate change. They will be made up of members from our national movements who are informative and knowledgeable in this field. They will be facilitated by the staff of the APAY.

The members of the resource group are expected to actively involve themselves in studying the recent trends of Climate Change, Climate Justice and Responsible Tourism in order to provide information and support for the advocacy and lobby work of the YMCAs and APAY in combating climate change. They will also support the APAY to organize workshops, seminars with a view to conscientize the YMCA members especially the youth in issues related to Climate Change, Climate Justice and Responsible Tourism.

Working in collaboration with Bread for the World, the resource group will assist the APAY to monitor the developments in Climate Change Negotiation process (United Nation Framework Convention on Climate Change - UNFCCC), follow the activities of the various UN and other international organizations working in this field (e.g. International Civil Aviation Organization - ICAO, International Maritime Organization - IMO, United Nation World Tourism Organization - UNWTO).

ICF Workshop in India focuses on Justpeace Education for Children

Interfaith Cooperation Forum (ICF) held a workshop from June 11 to 14, 2014, at the Henry Martyn Institute (HMI) in Hyderabad, India, to discuss ways to educate children about justpeace. The participants included four School of Peace (SOP) alumni from Indonesia and Sri Lanka who work with children and nine HMI staff members as well as two staff members of ICF. This workshop is a follow-up activity to the program held in June 2013 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, and is part of ICF's efforts to create materials for children about justpeace.

Consequently, at this workshop in India, the participants shared their thoughts about the content of resource kits that ICF will produce for children about justpeace. They also spent a good deal of time to consider an appropriate and holistic curriculum based on a variety of factors—interfaith spirituality, the culture and history of the children and their community and the physical and psychological needs of the children—as well as a number of different educational environments, such as formal and alternative forms of education.

In addition, the participants visited the school at HMI's Aman-Shanti Center that is located between predominantly Hindu and Muslim neighborhoods in Hyderabad that caters to children from both communities. As tensions and violence periodically arise between Hindus and Muslims in the city, the school is a place where children and their parents can regularly interact with each other and thus build relationships with each other that can hopefully mitigate the conflicts between them.

Participants of ICF's workshop for justpeace education for children play a game to introduce themselves to each other during the program in India.
